THE STAR ROUTE ARGUMENT PRO-

Taking an Active Part in Guiteau's Prosecution
The News of the Day About the Pederal
City-Gossips of the Capital.

WASHINGTON, November 5.-It is said that at the last cabinet meeting that the president had with Garfield's cabinet, Gen. Arthur, with some spirit, intimated that Attorney-General MacVeagh was neglecting the interests of the government, in allowing the prosecution of Guiteau to go on without himself taking any active part therein. Mr. MacVeagh said that it was no part of his duties to look after such eriminal prosecutions as this, and the presi dent very decidedly told him that it was, and that it was plain that unless something wa done justice might be defeated.

Mr. MacVeagh insisted on his view, and the president is said to have said, with some asperity, that it was the duty of the attorney general to be acquainied with the statutes.

The president then read the statute and said that they plainly committed the interests of the government in this case to the attorney general. Mr. MacVeagh not being dispose to accede to the president's view, General Arthur himself ordered that John K. Porter, of New York, the eminent criminal lawyer, be retained. The story is printed in the Star tonight, and is said by those who ought to know to be mainly true.

The Star publishes the statement that a cabinet meeting was held in the president's parlors directly after their return from Yorktown, at which all the members of the cabinet were present, and that the president said he had called them together to consider the question of the prosecution of Guiteau. That from facts which had come to his knowledge he believed the government entirely unprepared for the case, and that he would consider it pre-eminently disgraceful to the government if in the Guiteau case, as in the star route cases, the government should confess itself unprepared to go on, and be compelled to ask for a continuance. The president put the question to Attorney-General MacVeigh directly as to the preparation of the government to proceed in the Guiteau case.

The attorney general replied that he did not consider it any part of his business to give attention to criminal prosecutions. The consider it any part of his business to give attention to criminal prosecutions. The president replied that this was a great state trial, and that the whole country looked to Mr. MacVeagh to see that it was conducted properly and efficiently. Mr. MacVeagh said there was no law or custom for the attorney general to appear in criminal trials, and said he had been told so by Judge Jeremiah Black. The resident they enoughly as appear in a criminal trials, and said the provider that the said the said that the said the said that the said that the said been told so by Judge Jeremiah Black. The president then quickly and somewhat angrily asked Mr. MacVeagh how it had been in the Aaron Burr trial. "Oh, but that was a trial for treason, Mr. MacVeagh replied. "Yes," said the president, "and this is a trial for murdering the chief magnstrate of the nation, and to my what it is the positive duty of the attorney general to take charge of the case." Mr. MacVeagh then reiterated that the law never contemplated that as any that the law never contemplated that as any part of his duty. The president replied that the statutes of the United States authorized the attorney general to appear for the govern-ment at any time in any federal court in any case in which he might deem it his duty to do so, and he referred Mr. MacVeagh to a partic-

In the star route cases to-day Mr. Ingersoll proceeded with the argument which he commenced yesterday, taking up the second count of the information which charges conspiracy between Brady, French, McDonough and Brown. He showed the absolute absurdity of the allegation, that these men had constituted the start of the of the allegation that these men had spired to have the contract awarded as it was finally to Walsh. He knew of no law to prevent conspiring against himself, as McDonough the original ontractor on route 40,101 is represented to ave done. The law gave the right to judge of it to the postmaster general, and if the court was the judge of it, the facts should be clear and accurate. Alleged facts, not conclusions, should be stated, how could it be shown that any act charged, was done in furtherance of set forth in the information. After discussing the information, he took up the law on the

His ermine should be taken from him because he robe should be taken from him because he robs the citizens of their liberty without any probable cause; without an oath or affirmation. The 'judge that does it is infamous; but true or not, it does not change the law. Strange ideas they have of justice in New York! [Laughter.] A man can be arrested and imprisoned without any offense or anybody in the world swearing that he had violated any law. he had violated any law. He can be impris-oned on the guess of the district attorney. I have no doubt that this information was the child of New York practice, suggested by a gentleman who is in the habit of practicing in courts where men are deprived of their lib-erty by their accusers resorting to that for-It may be that an oath in the state of New York is so regarded that it is only a matter of form, and that is practice in New York." [Laughter.] After eulogizing the grand jury system he said that here in the district of Columbia, above all other places, should the grand and time-honored instituted grand-jury be maintained and be allowed to stand jury be maintained and be allowed to stand between the humble citizen and the man who can hold office. Said he: "My client is ar-rested upon official ignorance. He explained that by saying that the postmaster general that by saying that the postmaster general had sworn to the information upon what others told him." He closed by saying: "When my client is held up to public scorn and indignation it is about time that if there are any doubts they should be resolved in his favor. But instead of that, not satisfied with the harm already done; not satisfied when they were afraid to present this call to the grand jury; afraid, afraid, I use the word knowing what it means; when they were afraid to present it to the grand jury, they came to this court, having waited themselves for the expiration of the statute of limitafor the expiration of the statute of limita-tions, nearly having then, by illegal and void, accomplished the maligning of this man, they now say: "If you have any doubt, resolve doubt against the defendant. I say if the court has any doubt as to whether this is, or is not an in-famous crime, stop, if the court has any doubts as to whether these affidavits amount to probable cause, stop. No court can go on till final judgment, a judgment that takes from man his liberty or his property, without being as clear as daylight as to his 'urisdiction and power. Absolute knowledge that you have jurisdiction, makes you clear in your high office, and so I say; not only I, but law says it, if you have the slightest doubt, stop."

At the conclusion of Mr. Ingersoll's argument the court took a recess. Jeff Chandler, of counsel for Brady, addressed the court. He wished, he said, to call attention to two or three principles, which he thought controlled the case completely. The case stood now where it was left, with the discretion of the court to dispose of it. If their interprethe court to dispose of it. If their interpre-tation of the law was correct, there was noth-ing to send to the grand jury. The acts al-leged did not constitute any crime under the statutes. The type of juri-sprudence which this court admidistered was different in many respects from the type of proceedings many respects from the type of proceedings under the common law; a common crime did not have to be clearly defined to show the distinction between common and statutory law. Respecting crimes, he read from "Wharton's Criminal Law." The origin of common law was in the discretion of the administrator of it, who defined in his judgment what was and what was not a statutory jurisdiction. While the court was administering them, it could not be invoked to aid uncertainties of the nany respects from the type of proceedi not be invoked to aid uncertainties of the datute. If the acts could not be construed nto the offense conditioned by this statute, then the court would not of course weary itself with the matter. Mr. Chandler quoted extensively to sustain the principle which he had advanced to show that a court could not give equitable or liberal construction to a penal statute. He condemned in strong terms the attempt which had been made by the government to blast the reputation of the accused before giving them a hearing, and charged that the information had been given to the associated press before it had been

Mr. Cook interrupted with a denial of what he characterized, "Palpable and unfounded misstatement of fact." Mr. Chandler said if the gentleman denied it was so, he would accept the denial, and say he was mistaken, but whether it be a fact or not, there was not a man under the American that there man under the American flag, that does not know that he read, in substance, every charge in the information months before it found its way into court. Not one opportunity have they had to speak in their own behalf; not a single syllable of testimony had dropped from any living witness against them, but the government of the United States has so manipulated these facts to their disadvantage that a cloud of infamy rests mon their name. It is said these facts to their disadvantage that a cloud of infamy rests upon their name. It is said in every district of the United States, that for that alone, the court should exercise its discretion in expelling from its records this polluted thing. At the conclusion of his argument the court adjourned to Monday, when Mr. Cook will argue in opposition to motion to set aside the information.

missary. To these charges Lieutenant Flipper pleaded not guilty. The first witness testified that he took command March 14th, and found Lieutenant Flipper in charge of the commissary department. On July 6th witness told Lieut. Flipper to remit the commissary funds, and from the usual reports understood that he had complied. On August 10th the witness received a telegram from the chief commissary stating that the funds hadn't been received. The witness asked Lieut. Flipper what had become of them. He couldn't explain, but said he was sure the funds had been sent. On the eve of the 20th witness became satisfied that Lieut. Flipper's statements were false, and notified him that his quarters would be searched. Lieut. Flipper was placed under arrest. Search revealed $2,800 worth of checks in a box, which were checks which had been presented to meet the public funds by Flipper, among them spurious checks for $1,450; discontinued the search and had Flipper put in the quart house; visited him afterwards and exhibited a telegram, saying, he never had deposited them and was not authorized to draw. Flipper acknowledged the spuriousness of the checks. When asked as to the whereabour of the money, said he didn't know unless it mid been stolen from him. He would charge no one with theft; thought he could make good the shortage if permitted to see friends in town. They wanted to me in the first wanted to ment to be seen to be formed in person. Witness said that up to this affair, so far as his knowledge extended, Lieutenant Flipper had been straight in all his transactions. Adjourned.

The Bilehrlst Inquiry.

Rock Island, Ill., November 6.—In the Gilchrist inquiry yesterday Dan Torrence, the pilot and captain, said the boat had passed through the bridge all right, but stopped when about six hundred feet above. He asked through the speaking tube what the matter was, but got no reply that he could understand, though he thought he heard "all right," and for half a minute he headed the boat for the island shore, hoping to get out of the current, but she was carried down upon the bridge. He knew nothing of any drinking or of any whisky on board, and the machinery worked admirably up to the time it was disabled by the breaking of the cam rod.

COLUMBIA, S. C., November 5.—A very remarkable accident happened near Columbia this evening. A colored man named Marcus Williams, employed as track hand on the "Greenville and Columbia railroad, was casually walking along the track, when he discovered a dynamite danger detector lying on the iron rail. Thinking to have some sport, Williams struck the detector with his ax. A sudden explosion occurred, and the ax rebounded with terrific force, striking him on the neck and cutting his throat. In a few minutes Williams died. To-night an inquest was held, and the jury rendered a verdict that death resulted as described above. Special dispatch to The Constitution

The Standard, commenting on the alleged rotest of Mr. Blaine against any annexation the Peruvian territory by Chili, says: Conidering the circumstances existing in South America it would be simply offering a premium for aggressive combinatious if the annexation were recognized as the right of the more powerful. So far, therefore, Mr. Blaine has acted with a vigor which ought to commend itself to the world at large, but if he is not misinterpreted he seems to aim at constituting the Uuited States as the arbiter of the politics of the whole American continent. In view of the great colonial interests of England and the powers, such a pretension, if ever meant to be seriously advanced, is inadmissable. Nothing is more calculated to excite the susceptibilities of the petty South American republics. The United States and other American governments have, however, every right to protest against any European power gaining further footing on the continent of

Rankling Jealousy Between two Rustle Belles Result

In an Extraordinary Tragedy.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., November 6.—The most extraordinary murder case ever tried in this state is now in progress at Arkadelphia. The defendants are Miss Sarah Stokes and Mrs. Elizabeth Shelton, who are charged with the murder of Miss Malinda Stevens. The trage dy occurred near Mineral Springs, in Howard ounty, one day last April.

The Stokes and Stevens families are promi-

It is said that the girls were rivals, each wishing to be considered the belle of the neighborhood. However this may be, Miss Stokes at once mounted a horse, and accompanied by her sister Mrs. Shelton, set out to find Miss Stevens, who they heard was doing some showning in a neighboring town. The ome shopping in a neighboring town. women reached the place after a rapid ride, but Miss Stevens had omehow warned that they were searching for her, and advised to keep out of their way, and had acted on the suggestion.

After visiting all the village without finding Miss Stevens, the women started to return home. Miss Stokes was very angry at the failure to discover the girl, who had, as she alleged, defamed her, and expressed a deter-mination to keep up the search until Miss Stevens was found. Presently the twain came Stevens was found. Tresently the twain came by the dwelling of the Stevens family, which stood near the roadside. The mother of Miss Stevens was standing in the yard, and Miss Stokes addressed a few passionate words to her. The conversation brought out Miss Mainda Stevens, a fourteen-year-old sister of

HUNTING HIS WIFE.

COBB COUNTY MAN'S DOMESTIC TROUBLES.

Mrs. Howard Deserts Her Husband and Home, and

Yesterday morning a man about thirty-five ears of age, came to Atlanta on the Western and Atlantic passenger train and soon after lisembarking quietly made his way to police headquarters, where he asked for captain aldridge. The man was evidently a stranger in the city, and his actions indicated but little knowledge of the ways of this wicked world. His attire, conduct and talk all pointed to an unsophistocated individual, whose home had been the woods, and subsequent developments substantiated this theory ...

As soon as Captain Aldridge was made known to the stranger, he called him: to one side and said that his name was Wm. Howard; that his home was in Cobb county, and that he was hunting for his wife, who he had reason to believe was secreted in house of ill-fame, in Atlanta. been married about five months and that un-

Howard then went on to say that he had til recently he and his wife had gotten along finely. He further stated that he was married in Atlanta, although his wife was not a esident of this city, and that he loved her devotedly and wanted to induce her to return o his home. His manner indicated a great inxiety for the woman who had deserted him, and his love for her was made apparent when his stout frame shook with the strong motion that controlled him.

To the trained policeman it was evident that ne had a bad case to deal with, but his sym-pathetic feelings had been aroused, and he determined to do what he could to reunite the two. From Howard he obtained an accurate description of his wife and then began his search. At first his progress was slow, but about noon he ascertained that two women, about noon he ascertained that two women, one of whom answered the description of Mrs. Howard, had applied to a house on Collins street for board, but were not accommodated. Going to the place indicated by his informant the Captain learned that the intelligence was correct. Then taking this as his starting point he began trailing them until late in the evening, when trailing them until late in the evening, when he found them in a cottage given to sin. At first the woman denied being Mrs. Howard, out finally confessed. The officer then in ormed her that her husband had followed her o Atlanta, and that he wanted her to return to home, but to this proposition she promptly and emphaticany deciment to accede. Captain Aldridge then told her that unless she went with him to her hus-band, he would send her husband to her, but got her drunk, and when she sobered up, she was Mrs. Howard. Realizing the position was Mrs. Howard. Realizing the position she was in, she decided to make the best of it. and for a few months passed through life in a listless sort of way, but finally her husband began to abuse her, and she began to despise

Just at this period she became acquainted with a young gentleman in the neighborhood in which she resided, and the final result was her disappearance from her husband's nome, although the young gentleman did not eave. After leaving home, she says, she went to Chattanooga, where she lived a reckless life until a-few days ago, when she arrived in Atlanta, and where she intends to stay as long as she wants.

I would like to compare them?"
"Oh, yes. In October, 1880, the registered letters delivered were 4,933, the mail letters delivered were 110,183, the mail postal cards delivered were 37,017, the local letters deliv-ered were 8,104, the local postal cards delivered were 8,104, the local postal calculated are 10,423, the newspapers delivered were 87,741, the letters collected 50,448, postal calculated are 10,423, newspapers coltal cards collected 25,626, newspapers collected 4,652. the number then employed—was $530.70."
How about the receipts?" "In October, 1880, the stamp sales amounted to $5,568,70, while for the same month this year the stamp sales amounted to $8,679.20, an increase of $3,110.50. Then, again, the number of money orders issued by us in October, 1880, was 3,681 and in October. 1881, 5,586, giving an increase of 1,965 money orders. Thus you see we are growing."

This second one was issued by Joe Nall again, and as a peculiar thing, was issued at the instance of the same gentleman who got the first money order issued in Atlanta. Rather peculiar, ch.?"

MURDERED.

White Man Fatally Shot and Beaten by Negroes. NASHVILLE, November 5.- A Brownsvi Tennessee, special says: A most brutal and cold-blooded murder was perpetrated near Shephard's switch, about nine miles south of this city, on the Louisyille and Nashville raiload, some time during Tuesday night. A white man by the name of Davis was shot in the back between the shoulders, and afterward severely beaten over the head, as he was returning to his home, near Shepherd's switch, from Stanton depot, about three miles distant. He was discovered near the railroad track between 6 and 7 o'clock yesterday morning by the engineer of the accommodation train. The train wasstopped, and the wounded man was taken on to Stanton. When asked what had befallen him, he replied that he had been shot and robbed by a negro named Rola, living at the saw mill. He only lived long enough to make this statement and fell back dead. The negro mentioned was arrested, and the preliminary trial has been in progress before T. C. Coppedge, of stanton, and is not yet and to clock that night in company with another negro coming from where Davis was Shephard's switch, about nine miles south mpleted. This negro was seen between 12 and 1 o'clock that night in company with another negro coming from where Davis was shot. He remained away from home all night. Two other negroes, thought to be accomplices, have been arrested to-day. They will attempt to prove an alibi, but the evidence against them is very strong. THE MISSISSIPPI EDDIES

KEOKUK, Iowa, November 5.—The palatial passenger packet, War Eagle, in attempting to pass through a draw of the Keokuk and Hamilton bridge was baffled by the eddies and cross currents and swang around against the bridge, breaking out that unless she went with him to her lussband, he would send her husband to her, but this only caused her to smile and say, "Let him come, I'm ready for him." She then told the captain that she had made up her mind about the matter before she left home, and that she would die rather than go back. She said that when Howard first proposed marriage to her, she was a pure, woman, living with her mother favored his suit and used her authority to induce her to marry him. Finally Heward became so persistent that she left home and came to Atlanta, where she had relatives. In a short time Howard followed, and during one of his visits to this city they were married. She says, however, that she knew nothing of the ceremony, as she was drunk when she promised to love, honor and obey the man she now detests. She also says that the evening she was married, Howard and some of her friends, who were conniving with him, got her drunk, and when she sobered up, she was Mrs. Howard Position for him the distribution of the was been devening with him, got her drunk, and when she sobered up, she was Mrs. Howard Position for him the distribution of the was largers were safely landed. Captain Wood remained on the roof, and all the officers so far as known stood at their posts. The deek crew got on shore as soon as they could." Captain A. M. Hutchinson, general manager of the St. Louis and St. Paul packet company, was interviewed, and said it would be impossible to estimate anything like accurately the amount of damage done or the insurance. There is an insurance of about $25,000 on the boat which is valued at $10,000. The cargo consisted of about 10,000 packages of miscellaneous freight, chiefly potatoes, barley and flour, a large portion of which will be saved. The steamer is settled in about seventeen feet of water.

The wreck of the War Eagle was visited by hundreds of people to-day. Captian Hutchinson is of the opinion that the boat can be raised. The loes to the bridge company will be fully $15,000, on which there is no insurance. No bodies have been found as yet 1 is known that one man jumped in the river and was drowned. A colored deck hand was struck by a piece of the iron bridge and instantly killed.

ATLANTA BOARD OF HEALTH.

ATLANTA BOARD OF HEALTH.

It Meets and Agitates the Amended City Charter.
The board of health of the city of Atlanta convened in regular session yesterday, and in the absence of Dr. Armstrong, the president, was called to order by Mr. Haas. There were present—Members Baird, Drake, English and Rice, and the two sanitary inspectors.

The journal of the last regular meeting was read and approved

Member Rice called the attention of the board to the amendments to the city charter, and said that an ordinance by the city council was necessary to secure the advantages the amendments gave the board. He then moved that a committee of one be appointed to act in conjunction with the city attorney in drafting a suitable petition to the council touching this subject. The motion prevailed, and Member Baird was named by the president as that compristee.

Member Rice said that he thought the wagon system should be extended, and that every house and lot in the city should be as sessed the sanitary tax. He had been assured that every one in his neighborhood would gladly pay the assessment. In fact he was in favor of a new assessment, and said that it was necessary to begin now in order to have the city thoroughly clean by spring.

Sanitary Inspector Veal called the Sanitary Inspector Veal called the attention of the board to the condition of Peachtree street near Line and said that unless a pipe was placed at the fountain there to carry off the waste water no good could be done. The question was, upon motion, referred to the city council. Sanitary Inspector King called the attention of the board to the drain in the third ward, near the jail, and also to the pump at the corner of Broad and Mitchell streets.

Sanitary Inspector Veal also directed the attention of the board to the consideration of the fish houses.

A motion changing the hour of meeting from 5 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. prevailed, and then the board adjourned.

Chesp Railway Rates Having Effect-The Best Day Yet of the Great Exposition—Large Crowds in At-tendance—Mr. Edward Atkinson and Party in the Cotton Field Monday Morning.

Yesterday the success of the exposition was striking. The crowd was much larger than on any other day of the week. It was com posed principally of people who had comhere expressly to see the exposition and many of them will remain several days in the The last trains which came by all means. from the grounds were heavily loaded. Indeed the day was really the most successful of them all, for though there was no special attraction, the exposition drew the crowds by its intrinsic merit

It looks now as if there will be a steady crowd every day. Cheap rates have gone into effect on nearly all the lines, and will soon be adopted by the others. The several special appointed will of course be marked by unusually large crowds, but there is sure to be a good, steady patronage every day. The centennial itself started with small crowds, and be fore any one knew it the attendance had gradually swelled to great proportions. There s a constant gain here. This week it will be still more perceptible than it was yesterday.

They will meet a warm and cordial reception in Atlanta, the proverbial railroad center of the south.

INTERNATIONAL COTTON EXPOSITION, OFFICE OF THE DIRECTOR GENERAL, Atlants, November 5, 1881.
-Thursday, November 17th, will be set apart as railroad day, and all the railroad officials of Amerca are earnestly invited to be present at the exposition on that day

An exceptionally attractive programme will soon be arranged and published.

The managers of all the railroads will confer an especial favor on the undersigned by at once signifying their intention to attend and, by freely expressing their views as to the best method of making railroad day one of the prominent features of the exposition. Never in the history of the country has there been such an opportunity as is here pre sented in the railroad exhibits of examining critibeen properly pronounced by distinguished visitors try showing the capabilities of a single country ever seen in the world. No lady who visits the exposition and sees the Monitor oil stove will say that perfection in that di rection has not been reached. An oil stove mucertainly be a success when a fourteen pound roas can be cooked on it, yet such is easily accomplished with the Monitor. These perfect stoves are exhibited in the annex at the extreme end of the art building, and their points of superfority and mode of operation are explained to all visitors by Mr John McConnell, the superintendent of the com pany. The exhibit attracts more attention from the ladies than any other exhibit on the grounds and deservedly so. To-morrow a large turkey will be baked on one of the stoves, and a large crowd of visitors will doubtless watch the process. As an evidence of the success with which the stove is operated, it may be stated that Mr. McConnell is now loing the cooking on one of his stoves for twelve exhibitors.

Edward Atkinson identifies himself unequivocally with the extraordinary prescutation of southern thrift now unfolded in Atlanta. By common consent the cotton exhibition is one of the industrial events of this pushing industrial era. The visitor is amazed with the plentitude and precision of the articles brought together, bearing in mind the adverse conditions in which they have been brought to perfection. Ten years ago Atlanta was the Pompeii of the continent—a relic not of divine but human visitation.
To-day the city resembles the restless atmosphere of a New England or Pennsylvania manifuacturing town. Atkinson's letter by no means overdraws the picture of industrial activity or natural richness. The exhibition itself, evering every variety of indigenous thrift, is a testimony to the new order of things existing among what was before she war an incorrigibly inert people. It is characteristic of the spirit of monopolies that the possibilities of the exposition are endangered by the policy of the railways, which, instead of facchitating travel by a liberal reduction in rates, persisting on southern fines. Northern capital cuanot

The record of cures by the use of PAIN KILLER would fill volumes. The following extracts from letters received show what those who have tried it think: G.H. Walworth, Saco, Me., writes:

I experienced immediate relief from pain in the side by the aster your Park Killer. Edgar Cady, Owatonna, Minn., says: the side by the user, your Fain Killen for the umatism, thave used your Fain Killen for the umatism,

About a year since my wife became subject to severe suffering from theumatism. Our resort was to the PAIN KILLER, which speedily relieved her.

Charles Powell writes from the Sailers'
Home, London:

I had been afflicted three years with neuralicla and violent spasms of the stomach. The doctors at Westminster Hospital gave up my case in despair. I tried your Pank Killers, and it gave me immediate relief. I have regained my strength and am now able to follow my usual occupation. All druggists keep Pain Killer. Its price is so low that it is within the reach of all, and it will save many times its cost in doctors' bills. 25c., 50c., and $100 a bottle.

THE COTTON MARKET

CONSTITUTION OFFICE, Atlanta, November 5, 1881.

New York-The general condition of the cotton quiet and steady, and without any manifestation of early improvement. How long this state of a fairs is to last is a matter that cannot now be dete mined, but speculators are growing weary, and the dullness of the market is becoming painfully mono onous. More activity is looked for during the con ing week, and it is not improbable that business will uch improve. At the close to-day the months had effected no quotable change. Tone, steady; spo quiet and unchanged, with middling 115/c.

Net receipts to-day 31,603 bales, against 29,924 bales ast year; exports 16,038 bales; last year 28,548 bales stock 711,610 bales; last year 697,175 bales. Below we give the opening and closing quo

There is a good demand for cotton in our market, ut sales to-day were comparatively light. Liberal offerings were made to-day but buyers could not be-come reconciled to the demands of the sellers, which were usually about 1/3c above our market otations. Receipts continue heavy, and the treets and warehouses present an active ap pearance. Receipts to-day amount to 1,30 bales, of which 217 bales were received from wagons. THE CONSTITUTION

ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER6, 1881.

JUDGE W. O. FLEMING died at his residence in Bainbridge last Friday.

HENRY WATTERSON denies that he is to take charge of the New York World.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR, it seems, is not satisfied with Secretary MacVeagh's apathy in the Guiteau prosecution.

Hon. L. P. D. Warren was appointed by Governor Colquitt, yesterday, to fill the vacancy on the superior court bench caused by the death of Judge Fleming.

THE NOVEMBER ELECTIONS. No less than twelve states will hold elec-tions next Tuesday. Massachusetts, Missis sippi and Minnesota will vote for members of the legislature and for state officers. The first named state will also decide whether exsoldiers shall be allowed to vote without paying a poll tax. Minnesota has special ques tions regarding taxation and the pay of legislators to decide. Connecticut will elect half her senate. New York is to elect a legislature, some state officials and four congressmen New Jersey is to elect a house of representatives and half a senate. Maryland will do the same, and also choose a comptroller. Pennsylvania has to elect a treasurer and county officers. Virginia and Wisconsin will yote for state officers, half a senate, and a complete house. Wisconsin is likewise to decide whether it will have biennial elections and legislative sessions. Colorado is to change judges and county officers and locate its capital. Nebraska will choose three supreme court judges and regents of the state university, and also vote upon the extension of suffrage to women. The elections in Colorado, Connecticut, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nebraska and Wisconsin will not be strongly contested, and all these states will doubtless remain republican, except Mary land, which will remain democratic.

Contessted elections will occur in Virginia, New York, Mississippi, Pennsylvania and Undoubtedly the warmest contest will ake place in Virginia, where the democracy is called upon to face a combination of outs led by one of the most unscrupulous politicians of the period. Major Daniel is pitted for governor against William E. Cameron, of Petersburg: and unless all the best judges are and co at fault, he will be elected by at least 10,000 majority. The legislature is more in doubt, on account of the holding over of readjuster senators; but the people are wide-awake to the fact that the loss of the legislature would make Riddleberger the successor of Senator Johnston, and we therefore look for a clean democratic sweep on Tuesday.

The fight in New York is very promising. The registration in New York city is larger than in 1879, and the democrats will doubtles be able to cross Harlem bridge with 60,000 majority. Only twice since 1872 have the republicans come to the bridge with over 23,000 majority. This year they have little or no money for the state campaigu on account of the uncertain and peculiar attitude of Mr. Arthur, and in both wings of the party there is great apathy, and in some localities, like Buffalo, open revolt. There are dissensions in the democratic ranks, but it is believed that they will not affect the state ticket-certainly not in New York city and Brooklyn. We therefore feel justified in predicting an old-fashioned democratic victor

In the eleventh congressional district-Morton's-a very interesting contest is progress ing between a junior Astor, a stalwart, and Mr. R. P. Flower, a wealthy banker and a demoerat. It is very difficult to ascertain which has the best chance; but it is not difficult to say that if Mr. Flower carries the district, the republicans will lack one of a majority of the whole house, and the irregulars will be the balance of power. Mr. Flower, who is a much more capable man than his opponent, is pulling to win. In Mississippi Benjamin King has mustered a mixed following for the purpose of defeating Robert Lowry for governor. All the information from the state is to the effect that Lowry and the regulars will go in by a heavy majority. Mr. Lamar will be his own success sor in the senate.

The triangular contest in Pennsylvania is decidedly interesting. A state treasurer is to be elected, the candidates being Orange Noble, democrat; S. M. Bailey, republican; and Charles S. Wolfe, independant republican. The last named is self-nominated, and a bitter foe of the clan Cameron. He has made so effective a canvass that some predict the race will really be between him and Mr. Noble.

The New Jersey election would be without general political interests were it not for the fact that eight senators are to be elected, who will take a hand in the choice of Senator Mc Pherson's successor in January, 1883. Five republican and two democratic senators hold over, and upon the eight to be elected on Tuesday may depend the control of the federal senate after March 4, 1883. McPherson was elected by one vote only in 1877.

NOTES ON NEW BOOKS.

Ue THE RIVER; or, Yachting on the Mississippi. By Oliver Optic. With eight illustrations. Boston; Lee and Shepard. Atlanta: S. P. Richards. Price

In the preface to this book, the author, Mr. William T. Adams, confesses with some degree of boldiness, that this is his seventy-fifth book. It is plain that the man who has had the leisure to write upon Colonel Owens's time continues, the Indian seventy-five books, has never had time to write one seventy-five books. The seventy-fifth book s lishment and polished up. We also take pleasure in probably neither better nor worse than the first. It stopping the press to announce that Colonel Owens's

This is a story for boys, and although it is written.

order, it contains a good deal of vitality. Mr Trowbridge, it will be remembered, is a poet, and noets ought to know a good deal about boy nature sometimes vaguely called human natur The fact that he is a poet, however, has caused him to idealize certain traits of character, which do not need to be idealizd, and the result is the boys, one of whom we happen to be, will lay the book down with a feeling, that while they can be quite as bad as Mr. Trowbridge's heroes, they can never be quite as good. But this is not likely to break their

THE YOUNG FOLKS' ROBINSON CRUSOR; Or The adventures of an Englishman who Lived for Fiv Years on an Island of the Pacific Ocean. By Lady. Edited by William? Adams Boston: Leand Shepard, Atlanta: S. P. Richards. Price $1.05

In explanation of this queer and cumbersome title t should be said that it is a modification of DeFoe's vonderful book, made fifty years ago, by a Mrs Farrar, of Massachusetts. This modification has een in turn modified by the author of seventy-five books, so that the original Crusoe now figures per haps (we have not read the modified modification) as the president of a Young Men's Christian associa tion, with Friday as his private secretary. At any rate, we are satisfied that this Crusoe is a much bet ter man than DeFoe's Crusoe; and this thought con

LIPPINCOTT'S POPULAR SERIES OF READERS.—Vols. I. II., III., IV. and V. By Marcus Wilson. We are indebted to Mr. Martin V. Calvin, southern manager of J. B. Lippincott & Co.'s education al department, for the above volumes contained in this admirable series of readers. After a careful and somewhat critical' examination of their scope and character, we do not hesitate to say that the are superior to any books of their class now offered to the public. This sounds extravagant, but after all, it is not very high praise. In a general way when publishers desire to issue school-books, the employ the services of literary backs, and the results the dreariest sort of padding Awitness the so-called ammars and geographies now in use in our hools. Mr. Willson, however, appears to have an absolute genius for his work. We have tested his first, second and third readers upon a couple of oungsters aged six and seven respectively and heir enthusiasm knows no bounds. Such a test as this is final and conclusive. The secret of this is that the books are prepared by one who has a thor ough appreciation of the difficulties to be sur mounnted in arousing and retaining the interest o the young. Moreover, the books are based upon a distinct motive, and this motive is carried out with wonderful tact and judgment. This motive may be said to be three-fold, so that the pupil who goes through the series, directed by a careful and onscientious teacher, will have learned how t spell and read and write; will have acquired a fair knowledge of practical English grammar divested of the sickening and misleading technical rubbish with which the so-called grammars are loaded down; and will have learned considerable of geog raphy. At the close of the second volume, a con ious narrative is begun, and the author has a multitude of selections from the best literary We have great hopes that these books wil be successful enough to mark a new era in the prep tration of school books. The publishers are offer ing the volumes at liberal introductory and ex change rates, and will cheerfully give teachers an opportunity to examine them. The Burden of Interest. New York Tribune.

But if it were not so, we might well ask who feels the burden of taxarion in these days? There is much talk about the federal taxes during every national political contest. But what individual can claim that they are to him a real and perceptible burden? The country prospers marvellously. Industry is well paid and well employed. Inviting fields are opened to enterprise on every hand. No branch of business, no form of industry, is now embarrassed or timpeded by the burdens imposed by the federal government. And, finally, if we bear burdens in order to pay debt, we do so gladly in order to escape future burdens. The interest is a burden which the people are impatient to diminish in these years of prosperity, because they know that it will then be felt the less in any future time of adversity. The Press of the South.

Mobile Register.

Politically, the press of the south has sone its whole duty. While there are a few violent and extreme sheets among us, their influence is limited, and their circulation small. Moderation and caimness are now the prevailing characteristics of southern journalism, a certain natural extravagance of epithet, not to be wondered at during the reconstruction period, having to a great extent, disappeared. Of course the press of the south is almost entirely democratic. This is natural, as the intelligence and wealth of the south is democratic, and also as the memory of the wrongs inflicted upon us by the republicum party at the close of the war cannot easily be forgotten. But the course of the press of the southjuling fresident Garfield's illness, and the disposition shown to judge as favorably as possible of President Arthur, proves that it is ready to the disposition shown to judge as favorably as pos-sible of President Arthur, proves that it is ready to do justice to a political opponent, and to sink poli-lics when patriotism demands it.

Factories North and South.

Chattanooga Tradesman.

The difference in the prices paid for cotton by the northern and southern mills is thus definitely settled by the census. New England pays 11.65 cents per pound, the south 10.31, a difference of 1.14 per cent; in other words, were New England mills situated in the south, they would annually save $6,171,655 for cotton alone, which would enable them to pay 4 per cent additional dividend on their capital, a great deal more than many of them now pay.

In the matter of wages the showing is equally favorable to the south. The average wages of hands in New England is $256,64. In the south one hundred and sixty-one dollars and sixy cents a year, an item which would nake a difference $9,561,825 in the expenses of the New England mills yearly, or 6 per cent on their capital. Some of this difference in wages is due to a difference in skill; it is, however, not wholly so. Cotton and labor in the south commands lower wages than in the northern states, as there is more labor in the market in that section than is absolutely needed, and because the cost of living is cheaper in this section.

These two items, cotton and labor, will make a difference of between 10 and 11 per cent on the capital of the New England companies. They represent some of the advantages that the south possesses over that section in the manufacture of cotton goods. Other advantages, such as those of weather, which enables the southern mills to work the whole year round, instead of closing some days during the winter on account of the severity of the weather, the water power, of which we have an abundance, etc., need not be touched upon here, for weare only considering those points upon which statistics can be obtained.

Let us take the 438 cotton mills now in the north and transfer them to the south, as many far-seeing New England capitalists are already proposing to do. Estimating the other operating of the mills at one-third the cost of wages and cotton, the New England mills while in New England would return $16,178,198 of profits; if they were in the south, paying at the rate that the Southern mills pay for cotton and labor, they would net $87,951,471, or 21 percent. A curious fafe shown by the census returns, and one which very few people were probably aware of, is, that the southern mills manufacture finer goods on the average than the New England ones, getting 11 cents a yard for the goods turned out by them, whereas the New England mills get only $% cents. It will thus be seen that nearly every item in the southern mills that do better than the New England ones; that they pay less for cotton and labor, less for operating expenses and yet get more for their goods. The one point in which they fall behind is in production, and this is due to the falt that the northern mills have better machinery and more spindles and looms. There is no more potent argument on this subject than these figures, and they will doubtless carry conviction to the mind of many wavering cotton manufacturers.

The death of Judge Fleming left a vacancy list that office which Governor Cofquitt filled yesterday by the appointment of Hon. L. P. D. Warren, of Albany, Georgia. As the governor left Atlanta yesterday for New York, and there was immediate necessity for a judge to continue the fall courts, he made the appointment without delay. Judge Warren was recommended by telegraph by the bar of Albany and by leading lawyers all over the circuit. He is an accomplished jurist, and will fill the bench with grace and ability. It was an interesting coincidence that Judge William B. Fleming and Judge William O. Fleming father and son, should both have been occupying our supreme court bench at the same time, the father in the Eastern and the son in the Albany circuit. It has been a sad coincidence that both at the same time should cease their judicial labors, the father resigning his position on account of old age, and the son removed by death in the very vigor of his manhood. Judge Win, B. Fleming refired the first of November and on the 3d, two days later, his son, Judge William O. Fleming, died. The loss to Georgia will be great from this coincident deprivation of official service.

THE E, JACCARD JEWELRY COMPANY OF ST. LOUIS, THE E. JACCARD JEWELRY COMPANY OF ST. LOUIS, which—with uninterrupted success from the foundation of the house in 1829, by strict honesty, fair dealing, good taste and judgment—bas to-day reached a position second to perhaps but one of its kind in the United States, and though its trade and its hold upon the confidence of the public are so well established that orders are always coming from every part of the south and west to be filled "according to your taste and discretion," yet it has sent nere an exhibition from which the ordinary and commonplace are so severely eliminated that it contains little that the average visitor has ever seen before, and many things that even the expert searcher for the rare, rich and costly will find entirely new.

REPOUSSE WORK.

The newest thing in silver is termed the repousse—being hammered from the inside; leaving the dent of every stroke upon the surface, which the skilled workman closes with ornaments in shells, leaves, tendrils, fruits and flowers. Perhaps the handsomest thing ever produced in repousse, and which is here on exhibition, is the service recently presented to Colonel. J. W. Paramore by the merchants of st. Louis, made by this company at a cost of $2,500, of solid silver with every piece hammered into emblems typical of the service and successful enterprises of its distinguished recipient. So great is the rage for repousse in presentation services that the E. Jaccard jewelry company are now making a large number to order, each one of which on some unexpected (?) evening will cause a great man's throat to choke with emotion.

Nothing in the Jaccard paviliton will attract more attention, especially from the young and fair, that a full bridal set of 131 pieces; but for a silver weiding present they have on exhibition, worked into shells and shell fish, a trio of soup-tureen, oyster dish and pitcher (in repousse) that would add a fresh charm to the merriest table that ever a happy family gathered around.

DIAMONDS AND GEMS.

DIAMONDS AND GEMS.

DIAMONDS AND GEMS.

Their collection of diamonds and other precious stones is enough to dazzle the eyes of a rich Rothschild baroness, there being in it the largest and costlict matched pair of diamonds, as I am told by Mr. C. C. Adams, the company's general manager, that were ever offered in America, for which they charge the modest sum of $10,000; while the very best obtainable specimens of all the rarest gems have been garnered in from the four quarters of the earth and spread out here to feast the eyes of rich and poor allike.

Another very striking feature of this display is a ollection of clocks, all different in design and nish, not one of which would fail to ornament or heer the most elaborately furnished parlor or costlest boudoir. Of these, the pretiest to my taste is me a la mosque, with minaret and spire all in silvery bronze, but the new styles in agate and chalcedony will doubtless find their legions of admirate.

ORNAMENTS IN FINE PORCELAIN.

There is satsuma, made more than 200 years ago, in huge vases ornamented with representations of the aborigines of Japan in arms, rebelling against their southern rulers, which go as companion pieces to a statue, likewise satsuma, of the great giant King Woo, whose feats of strength and valor have handed down his name as the Hercules or Samson of the legendary lore of the celestial empire. Here too are nymphs, nainds and graces and the rarest bisque in figures of snowy whiteness, whose veilings and other graceful draperies, tinted with exquisite delicacy, make the perfection of fine art. Oh, ye utterly utter, to break up your blue chanceware and come here and catch faint glimpses of an ethereal, higher life, amid the enchantmen of Jaccard bisque and bronze.

life, amid the enchantmen of Jaccard bisque and bronze.

The Jaccard jewelry company is very fortunate in having as its president, Mr. E. J. Cuendet, who, with the advantage of speaking several foreign languages, spends a good portion of his time in traveling through Europe in quest of the newest, freshest and prettiest things that can be found in and out of her great art centers.

In addition to these artistic things, this company manufactures from sterling silver, better than coin, everything in the way of forks, spoons and other domestic articles, and by doing it all themselves are enabled to undersell other dealers, who, in granger parlance, may be called middle-mon.

Thave taken such genuine pleasure in looking, piece by piece, at all the lovely things in this display that I am satisfied that a majority of the visitors who come to the exposition will find nowhere in its vast array of sights anything better wards, seeing than the Jaccard pavilion, and I feel sure that the great pains this company has put itself to in adding, as it has, so much to the attractiveness. hat the great pains this company has put itself to n adding, as it has, so much to the attractiveness of Art hall will not fail to be rewarded by a hearty outhern appreciation.

Tom Jackson, colored, an escaped convict, was yesterday capcired by Detective Hildebrand. About four months ago Jackson was working at the Markham house, and was detected stealing from the guests of the hotel, and after a careful trial was sentenced to a twelve months' term in the chain-gang. Soon after being sent to the chainging he made his escape after tenimed his liberty until yesterday, when his arrest was made.

IN MEMORIAM.

In Memorlam.

The members of the Clionian Society of the Atanta Female Institute, held a memorial meeting in honor of its deceased member. Annie E. Wharton, October 28, 1881, at which, the following resolu ions were read and approved: The grief that cannot speak, Whispers the overfraught heart, and bids it break. 1. Be it resolved, That for the loss of our dear friend and companion, who has passed from this ife into that better and brighter existence, we feel the deepest grief. And yet knowing that her happy spirit enjoys its wondrous awakening to all the greatness and goodness of its life, beneath the Eternal Eye of an all-guiding hand of a more than earthly Father, we rejoice for her, even in the midst of grief.

2. Be it resolved. That we endeavor so to fashior our acts, thoughts and words, here and elsewhere, that we may be better fitted o become members of that higher society to which she has preceded us. And that this, the first loss which our members have suffered may bear pr cious fruit in the vineyard of our Redeemer.

In the spring of 1879, Aprile E. Wharton came in our midst-then thirteen years of age-an only child, idolized and indulged by her fond parents who lived but to gratify her. She soon won all nearts by her loving, generous nature, each year developing into a more perfect womanhood-beau tiful in charactar and in person. She possessed those traits which attract the love and admiration of all. This was particularly manifested last June acement exercises, when she received the music medal amid the rapturous applause of her schoolmates and friends. Never was one better fitted to enjoy love and appreciation, so noble and nnocent, left her unspoiled. We sorely miss her oyous presence and our loving hearts are subdued nd bewildered that her young life, "A thing of love and laughter, like streaks of morning clouds, nas melted into the infinite azure of eternity.

PRELIMINARY TRIAL.

A preliminary trial of cotton gins and cleaners on exhibition

ing on Wednesday, November

9th, at 10 o'clock, a.m.

Sufficient cotton for this Test has been selected, all of the same kind and grown upon the same field, under uniform conditions, which have secur ed a uniform quality. Each exhibitor will be furnished with one hundred pounds (to be paid for at the rate of three and one-half cents per pound) the time to be taken of each gin, the fiber and seed to be weighed after ginning. Each parcel of lint is to be placed in a separate bag, ticketed and named. mitted at the meeting of the NEW ENGLAND COT-TON MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION, NO-VEMBER 30TH. At that meeting a second delegation of manufacturers will be appointed to come to the Exhibition, December 6th, to meet the National Cotton Planters' Association. From the two bodies udges will then be appointed. A sufficient quantity of cotton in the seed from one field will be secured now and kept for the trials which may be made at that time. A notice will be sent at once

THE EXCITEMENT OF THE WEEK IN GOTHAM.

The Arrival of Patti, and the Expected Visit of Pres dent Arthur-New York Journals Prospering off Sensations-The Groat Bank Break of Newark-Business at the Theaters,

Special Corréspondence Constitution New York, November 4.—Between politics the arrival of Patti, the bad weather, the first appearance of Rossi and the anticipated arrival of President Arthur on a visit, there has been quite a nice little fever of excitement. In a financial way the Newark bank failure has been sufficient to attract attention. There is no doubt about it, we have a splendid week of it, and the news gatherers have reveled in the cream of business. The Newark bank failure has perhaps done more for the newspapers than anything since the president's death, and I am impressed with idea just now how they do prosper on sensations that are pregnant with evil, either to many persons or to some few eminent ones. The largest issue the New York Sun ever had was of course at the time the president was shot.

Before that its regular circulation was, including its weekly, less than 1,000,000 a week of which 130,000 was of its regular daily edition. On the days of the great walking matches three years ago, when they were ap proaching their last hours, especially if the competition was close, the paper published as high as 206,000 copies in a day. This fact would seem to indicate how local the bulk of the Sun's edition is. But it is not so local after all. And in such vast increase of circulation as this, the indication has a deeper and greater significance than ap pears at first sight. It shows how the hurry ing, never resting, always moving population of New York, requires its news in a shape that it can grasp in a moment. Condensation is the word in newspaper offices. As Joseph Howard paragraphically asks in nearly every column he writes:

Why?" Because such business results as the Sun have attained were reached by giving its readers what they wanted know without interfering with their other business. For example a man rushing down town in the morning on the elevated train can read the Sun while he would have been searching for what he wanted to know in some other paper. He runs through its columns that are placed on a page he can handle without striking his neighbors in the eye or straining his arms to hold open, and when he has done he commands an epitome of the news of the day such as he could not have gained in any other way. The Herald approximates to something near the same result by keeping news of the same character together. A big fire will be followed by reports of the small fires, the explosions, the deaths by accident, the runaways, and so on and so forth. All for-eign news will be together, and any one well acquainted with the paper can find almost anything he looks for if ne keeps on looking. The Times, World and Tribune have ways of putting their news that is exclusively their own. The Star is very much like the Sun in make-up and to that fact may be attributed much of its prosperity, although it is a mon-induced by reason of the great financial winnings that Billy Copeland, the Washington correspondent, and his friends were making, to go down and try my luck too. What I did don't matter. I haven't got now what I won, nor have I got what I dove to think of them, just as all people who are growing old love to dwell in memory lost, but in those feverish days, Osear Baldwin, the cashier of the broken bank, hung over the tape with me, and wondered and wondered what that other Baldwin—Columbus C.—was going to do. Sometimes he spoke wondered what that other Baldwin-Columbus C.—was going to do. Sometimes fre spoke bitterly, but generally he was so passive and stoical that no one could tell whether he was on the bull or bear side of the market. Finally he dropped out and we who hung to hope with our eyelids—yes, by the skin of our teeth—that's not slang, but scripture vide Old Testament, had the impression that he was a heavy loser. In those days Mr. Baldwin was apparently a man of 44 or 45 years. He dressed with scrupulous exactness, was always calm and self-possessed, never drank any at the bar, lunched at Delmarks, or Bread street usually in comparison. I saw countries the surface of the control ico's, on Broad street, usually in con pany with some friends, but some alone, ate heartily and guided conversation. He was personally pop-ular. His friends called him Oscar. Afterwards I used to meet him at Coney Mand. He always had a word to say about Nashville and Chattanooga, and thought he would like to touch it again. Those who have seen him within the last three months say he has changed wonderfully. Care has

At that time she was a timid, ungainly young woman, but the divine spark was there and soon kindled a flame of enthusiasm. She went abroad. Every triumpla that the lyric stage could give became hers as by right, and her professional history has been beyond parallel for the record off success. Her married life has not been one of unbroken happiness, or at least if she enjoyed it. the other party did not. The Marquis Caux was her first matrimonial venture, and from him she was divorced and became Madame Nicolini. They don't get on very well. Idon't wonder she is a large woman with not much figure to speak of, but preserved to some kind of grace by the exquisite taste displayed by her dressmaker. She has large bands and feet, a monstrous throat, brown complexion, half dark eyes that glitter and shine with dangerous looking lights, a strong cut mouth, very large ears, long aggressive nose, good but not regular teeth, and wears her hair branged in a way to show that she has not got an abundance of it. BILL ARP'S LETTER.

The Good Old Times When He Was a Boy-The Expo-

I was a ruminating over the wonderful things in the exposition, and it carried me back a half a century, only a half a century, when there were no railroads, no telegraph no sewing machines, no kerosene oil. When our fathers were content to haul their goods a hundred miles on old-fashioned wagons, with cradle bottoms, and the hind gate sloping way up yonder-when we boys used to go along with 'em to Augusta, or to Macon, and camp out at night, and listen to the old nigger vagoners, as they told us about ghosts and haunted houses, and witches riding the horses at night; and platting their manes, and stealing a shoe from the whitest foot. When there were no matches in the world and the tinder box was nailed behind the door and we saved all the punk we found in the woods. When our mothers dipped candles once a year and put them in the candle trunk and we were al-lowed one for each night and there were fifty over for company and sickness. When we boys wore nankeen in summer and country jea in winter, and honest wool hats, home-made or sealskin caps, that would hold water like a jug. When the girls knit their own stockings or sealskin caps, that would hold water like a jug. When the girls knit their own stockings and it took only six yards of country homespun to make a frock, and we had quiltings and a good dinner and invited the nabors, and some of the patchwork was the sun flower and the rising sun and the honey comb and the frish chain and the road to Jericho, and it was quilted in shells, and we children thought it was juts the prettiest thing in the wide world, and were so sorry for the poor folks who didn't have em. We were rich at our house. We had nice plank window shutters and 8x10 glass, and a big room, another our house. We had nice plank window snut-ters and 8x10 glass, and a big room, another one by the side of it, and a porch and two little shed-rooms that were not ceil-ed, and I've never heard any much of its prosperity, although it is a monstrous bright paper, and 'its Sunday edition is as readable as any in New York. The Philadelphia Times, although original enough, caught the same idea when it printed on nearly the same idea when it printed on nearly the same sized sheet as the Sun, and improved very much on its prototype, when its own type was made larger.

But this is all foreign to what I started out to write, in effect that the news being plenty, the papers prospered. There has never been any such a break in banks in this country before as this one in Newark. Three years ago, when the Nashville and Chattanooga railroad stock was on the boom, I was induced by reason of the great financial winnings that Billy Copeland, the them They came in good time as a dispensation of a wise Providence. They came like cotton and the cotton gin, and the spinr jenny and the loom when it was found possible to clothe mankind without They came like coal came when the wood o the old world was about to give out. this coal and iron and manganese wasent put here for nothing. I saw enough iron ore in one hill near Rockmart to supply the world for ten years, I know, and Mr. Cole's road is going right to it, and somebody will buy it before long from Judge Barber, and go to developing. It is acres broad and acres deep. The manganese to make it into steel is not far away, and the coal to smelt it is within easy reach, and these combinations were not accidents. There wouldent be a steel rail in the world to-day if Bessamer had not discovered the new process of making it. And As a could like to have seen him within the say he has changed wonderfully. The say he has changed wonderfully. The set its stamp upon him, and the evidence of that inward sorrow was shown on his features. What wonder if it had? It' is wonderful to the think that a defaleation amounting to two and a quarter million dollars could go on so without discovery until the end was reached in the inevitable course of events that he alone foresaw. The future for him means disgrace and saw. The future for him means disgrace and saw. The future for him means disgrace and saw. The future for him has been stranged in minerals and that we are a sort of civilized people and give 'em a welcome when they come. The south is nature's reserve and the time is at hand when the world must draw upon us for supplies. I see world must draw upon us for supplies. I see that a feller in Pennsylvania has been raising that the same that th and there does not seem much chance for him even were he to try and oppose the current of the law, from which few who are caught in its tide can escape.

world must draw upon us for supplies. I see that a feller in Pennsylvania has been raising a little passel of cotton, and has brought it down to the exposition, and says he is going Well, Patti is here. You know, I suppose, that her origin is not defined, except that she is of Italian extraction and of New York birth. She first sang in the flower pit all winter, and it had a few blossoms and three per four little sickly oranges. That's could only pick a pound a day, and we could get along now in the same old way if it wasn't for the new-fangled fashions imported on us and the idle folks that don't work and have got to be supported by somebody. Adam for the new-tangted tashions imported on us and the idle folks that don't work and have got to be supported by somebody. Adam Smith wrote a book and proved that the labor of one man could decently supporteight people, and my opinion is that we have got to that pass when about one in eight is doing it—and that's the reason why so many contrivances are invented. It is to help one industrious man support seven or eight varabonds trious man support seven or eight vagabonds—or non-producers, for they are all the same.

Well, I hope Atlanta is happy and the exposition a success. Mr. Toon told me there was nothing lacking but a steam pianner BILL ARP.

A Valuable Experience

A Valuable Experience.

Few men are better known throughout the Methodist denomination than D. W. Bartine, D.D., M.D. Speaking of a most critical incident in his life, he said: "Some time since I found myself suffering from what is known as albuminuria. By the use of a reliable test I found albumen in the urine, and in some slight degree in a few instances in a coagulated state. I suffered from dropsy, particularly about the ankles, slight pains about the kidneys, a derangement of digestion, great dryness of the skin, at times much thirst, and of ness of the skin, at times much thirst, and ness of the skin, at times much thirst, and of course, a gradual failing of strength. This was about the state of things when I commenced using Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure. I took about six tablespoonfuls every day for a week, when I found all my symptoms decidedly improved, and at the end of two weeks it was difficult to detect any trees of allower. Having improductly taken race of albumen. Having imprudently taken trace of aroumen. Having improachity taken cold, I had a very slight relapse some two weeks ago, when I began again using the medicine, and am now as well as ever." The doctor's symptoms are as common as headache, and yet, unless taken in time, they may lead to the worst results, which the remedy above named will certainly prevent. named will certainly prevent. oct30d2w sun wed fri&w2w

WHITE WOUND ON

The manufacturers of this spool Cotton have now opened in full blast. They have now put in motion their New Automatic Spooling Machinery, is one which of the greatest chanical marvels ever produced. This machine can be seen from 10 a, m. till 4 p. m. EVERY DAY.

One of these machines will spool or wind over six thousand spools of cotton every day.

It spools or winds EIGHT spools of cotton at a time.

It lifts up the 8 empty spools, fastens the thread on each spool and measures out the 200 yards on all spools at the same time. When it has wound and measured the 200 yards, it then cuts the thread on each of the 8 spools

It next makes a little incision or slit in the edge of each spool, fastens the thread into the slit, and hally drops the spools, ready for the market, and begins anew with 8 more empty spools. The incredulous are sometimes inclined to think that there is something supernatural about this machine, it is so wonderfully perfect and complete in every movement, and yet so simple that one young ady is all that is required to attend to this machine. The manufacturers of O. N. T. Spool Cotton will, for the present, defer putting up their new Automatic Ticketing Machinery, owing to the extraordinary enthusiasm created by the young lady who has hitherto stamped the tickets on the ends of the spools.

This young lady can stamp 40,000 spools of cotton every day, and so great is the desire to see her at this truly magical work, that hundreds come every day and refuse to leave till they have seen her.

They will also introduce BOX MAKING and several other interesting processes in connection with the manufacture of spool cotton.

They have on exhibition the handsomest case of Spool Cotton ever seen in Georgia, standing 20 eet high, and got up at a cost of nearly two thousand dollars. They also exhibit several beautiful cases of Colored Spool Cottons, which for delicacy of tint and brilliancy of color have never been equaled by any other thread manufacturers. The manufacturers of O. N. T. also exhibit their 100 Mile Monster Spools. The feat of winding thread on such enormous spools has never been successfully accomplished by any other thread makers They have also on exhibit 10,000 Japanese Work Boxes, each box containing 8 spools of O.N.

T. Cotton, which they will offer to the public at the low price of 50 cents each.

The manufacturers of CLARK'S O. N. T. SPOOL COTTON are preparing to distribute, FREE OF CHARGE, 100,000 sample boxes of this celebrated thread, which will be prepared in the building.

The manufacturers of O. N. T. are in the proud position of being the largest manufacturers of spool cotton in the world, giving employment to upwards of 6,000 operatives.

The enormous increase in the demand for this celebrated thread has compelled the manufacturers to build an addition to their present works in Newark, N. J., and next year, when completed, will give employment to 1,200 more operatives. There are several brands of CLARK'S THREADS, and there is a very general impression amongst consumers in the south that \emptyset . N. T. is wound on black spools. In justice to themselves the manufacturers of O. N. T. beg to correct this very general mistake, and would state that the O. N. T. is wound on WHITE SPOOLS, and the bottom label of every spool is branded O. N. T.

NONE OTHER IS GENUINE.

At this time the manufacturers of CLARK'S O. N. T. SPOOL COTTON are making a special effort to introduce this thread more universally in the south, and would esteem it a great favor if every lady would give it a fair trial and judge of its merits. It is the popular thread in all other parts of this great country, and it only requires to be better, known to become the popular sewing thread of the south.

"The play is excellently mounted. The representations of waves, a wrecked ship, lightning firing of rockets, a water wheel and other paraphernalia which have their places in the story are well planned, and they worked without a hitch. So well was the acting done that at times the applause was vociferous. The curtain was pulled up several times after it had fallen on the first act before the audience were willing to leave off applauding, and the actors were compelled to appear before the curtain after the fourth and fifth acts in reply to their demands."—Norfolk Virginian.

Miss Hahr.—From "Russell," the brilliant correspondent of the Augusta Chronicle, we take pleasure in copying the following highly complimentary notice of Miss Hahr, a young and gifted musician of Atlanta: "At this long distance, I may be pardoned for introducing mention, in this connection, of a musical celebrity of Atlanta, whose gifts and attainments entitle her to a more than local fame. The frigid countries of Norway and Sweden, have given to the world artists in music outrivaling the best talent of Italy, storied for her musical art—outrivaling, because in Jenny Lind, Ole Bull and others, natives of those colder climes, there was soul accompanying artistic perfections, such as has shone in none of Italia's musical sons and daughters. A fair young girl, an orphaned child of Swedish parentage, has for more than a year been making a profession of music teaching in Atlanta. Of modest, retiring mien, society has discovered the nusical prodigy in its midst, why as greated the grant of the prodiging in the production of the discovered the musical prodigy in its midst, only as society has gradually impelled her to reveal her accomplishments. I have heard the most renowned pianists who have appeared before American audiences, but never one whom I concede the superior in soulful or artistic execution to Miss Emma Hahr. But her attainments are not confined to the most superior in the superior in soulful or artistic execution to Miss Emma Hahr. her attainments are not confined to execution merely, her genius for composition being marked. Given the opportunities for deeper study of her art, and in Miss Hahr America may boast a musical artist of distinguished merit.

ANUSEMENTS THIS WEEK.—Tuesday night, the Widow Bedott Comedy company, Charles Bishop, as the celebrated widow. In comedy, farce and burlesque, Bishop holds too eminent a rank to require one word from us. The young ladies of the company are very pretty, and sing and dance deliciously. We predict a crowded house.

Wednesday night the peerless singing comedienne, Miss Minnie Palmer, and the great German-American dialect comedian, R. E. Graham, will produce in magnificent style the musical comedy, "My Sweetheart." It is replete with music, fun, dancing, with glimpses of Lotta, Mitchell, Emmett and Jefferson. Miss Palmer is regarded as the most beautiful actress in America.

Thursday, "Hearts of Oak"—a play which is pathetic, full of action and is full of droll and laughable positions. It is well mounted. Its representations of waves, a wrecked ship, lightning, water wheel, firing of rockets, etc., makes it very attractive.

lightning, water wheel, firing of rockets, etc., makes it very attractive.

Hess Acme Opera company, Friday night and Saturday matince, Ollivette—Saturday night The Mascotte. A more delightful musical treat cannot be imagined. There are forty-two members of the troupe, among them quite a number who have sweet voices, thoroughly trained in the best methods of vocalization. Both operas will be given in full—the merry, airy, pretty, sunshiny Olivette, and The Mascotte, so full of pretty catches of music.

The Besch Show.—Mr. Charles Lincoln, so well known among the dog fanciers in the city, came with the expectation of taking harge of the bench show to be opened on the 15th, but he was detained at the bench show which has just closed in London, Canada, with so much success, until the time for preparation for the bench show in connection with the exposition is so short that it will be impossible to make the necessary preparations. It is hoped, however, that later in the season this matter may be arranged. Notice of its postpenement may be found in another column.

New Code of Georgia.—At the recent session of the legislature a new code of laws was ordered printed, and the compilers, Messrs. Lester, Hill & Rowell, after conferring with leading publishers, wisely decided to award the work to the well known law-book publishers, Messrs. James P. Harrison & Co., of this city. The work is brought to date, and will be in all respects the most perfect work ever given the state. Printed on new type, it will be equal to Otto's I. reports. The edition will be limited. We therefore advise all who desire a copy, to place their names with Messrs. James P. Harsison & Co., without delay, who alone control the publication and sale of the code.

A VISIT TO THE EX-KHEDIVE'S CORRAL.

Now the Boss Princess Lives, Moves and Has Her Boing-Business at a Parisian W.16 Exchange —Social Educate as Practiced by Mr. Lo-How Indians Return Calls.

THE EX-KHEDIVE'S HAREM.

The Nouvelle Revue published an interesting account of a visit by Mad. Della-Rocca to the palace of the Favorita, near Naples, where the harem of the ex-khedive of Egypt is at oresent lodged. "Between Naples and Casterhame," says the writer, "at a little distance lamare," says the writer, "at a little distance." She assures herself at once as to the lamare," says the writer, "at a little distance from the ancient Herculaneum, now calted Resina, one may perceive a great palace, very fee. HOW INDIANS RETURN CALLS.

Milwaukee Sun A party of Sioux Indians were guests at a leading Milwaukee hotel, and the ladies had agreat deal of amusement studying their customs. That is, they all did except one lady.

The ladies called upon the Indians, and the savages returned the calls almost before the ladies got to their rooms. One of the ladies called on a chief and then went to her room and retired, and pretty soon there was a knock at her door and she found that it was the chief. She told him to come in the morning. The lady un-locks her door in the morning so the porter can come in and build a fire before she te appears from time to time in the degets up. She heard a knock in the morning, and, supposing it was the porter, she said: "Come in." The door opened and in walked Mr. Indian. She took one look and pulled the bedelothes over her head. He sat down on the side of the bed and said, "How?" Well, she was so scared that she didn't know "how" from Adam. She said to him in the children, and a numerous suit, observing abroad the usages of his country and his faith. A European is rarely admitted to visit the princesses, but having requested this honor I obtained it for a certain day, and was told to call. I drove through the entrance gate and drew up before a large and clevated iron railing opening on a stairway. Opposite to this was the private entry of the khedive. Two small domestics wearing the tarbouch were were said to him in the best Sioux that she could command, "Please, good Mr. Indian, go away until I get up;" but he didn't seem to be in a hurry. He picked up pieces of her wearing apparel from the floor, different articles that he didn't seem to know anything about, where they were worn, and made comments on them in the Sioux tongue. The stockings seemed to were worn, and opposite to this was the private entry of the khedive. Two small domestics wearing the tarbouch were waiting for me on either side of the railing; a steward of the was opened by a kind of giant, and was nocked behind me as I walked in. The creature, without saying a word, made me an oriental salute, and gave me a sign to follow him. The habitation of the women is in the second story. There I was received by another perstance. story. There I was received by another personage, big, black and fat. He opened the door, and, lifting a heavy screen like those in locked that door too quick, and she will never locked that door too quick, and she will never locked that door too quick and she will never locked that door too quick.

vorce, the proceedings for which have been begun in the circuit court of Hannibal, Mo. The Post prints an abstract of the petition. It sets forth, among many other things, that the defendant, unmindful of her duties and obligations as the wife of plaintiff, has, during the marriage and up to the date of their separation, offered such indignities to 'plainas to render his condition intolerable. Numerous difficulties are given, and the plaintiff states that within the last few weeks the defendant has to be a favorite, for she alone receives visitors, the is always very elegantly dressed in Patistain toilets from Worth's. The princess rears neither rings nor bracelets, though I assured that each princess has several of worth of pearly and distinguishing wort millions worth of pearls and diamonds. Princess Talka is twenty years delicate and graceful creatue, and in company with men of ner acquaint-anceship, who are unkown to plaintiff, enter public restaurants and saloons in Washington embarrassment. At the end of a quart of an hour seven slaves came in and anged themselves in military tashion. TROY, N. Y., November 4.-Gilbert G. Thompson, a wealthy resident of Troy, who was generally supposed to be a widower, died in the early part of Setember, bequeathing nearly his entire estate to his son, who at that time was traveling in Europe. When the contents of the will became known An toinette Barker, a sister of Mr. Thompson's wife, claimed that she was legally wedded to Mr. Thompson, and entitled to a dower interest in the estate.

In the surrogate's court yesterday Miss Bar-ker testified that her sister died in July, 1866, and that six weeks afterward Mr. Thompson and that six weeks afterward Mr. Thompson locked ber in a room over the parlor of his residence, and, declaring his love for her, so emuly called upon God to witness that he would love, cherish and provide for her as his lawful wife until death did them part, stating at the time that he did not dare to have the ceremony made public because of the opposition of his mother. Miss Barker afterward lived with him, and was introduced by him to parties, whose names were given, as his wife.

Surrogate Warren gave Miss Barker a stand-

Surrogate Warren gave Miss Barker a standing in court to contest the will. Should she succeed in establishing her claims, it will af-fect the title to hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property, because since 1864 Mr. Thompson, acting as a single gentleman, has conveyed many parcels of real estate.

REVIEWING THE WORKS OF THE ANCIENTS.

Graphic Account of Newly Reveated Ruins-Im-pressions Made By the Wonders of the City of the Casars-Churchef and Chapels Vis-ited and Relies Chatted About.

ROME, Italy, August 29 .- Rome is truly a treasury of antiquities-a city of wonders. Long-buried monuments are being exhumed every day, and more than half of the territory within the walls remains an unknown country to the present generation. When the railway entered the city, by an opening in the wall of Aurelian, the excavation necessary to lay the track on a level revealed a portion of the old wall of Servius Tullius, built 560 years before the Christian era. Here, then, is a piece of masonry, in a state of preservation, that i 2,460 years old! It is astonishing to see how these old workmen performed their tasks The far-famed Roman cement, twenty-five hundred years old, is harder than granite and defies the assaults of time.

Near the ancient site of the old Flaminian gate, is the Piazza del Popolo, or the square o the people. On the left the Pincian hill has been terraced and planted, and now forms a fashionable drive. This piazza of the people is the terminus of three principal streets, one leading to the railway terminus; one tracing the banks of the Tiber, and the center is the famous Corso, which terminates at the Roman forum and the capitol. On this piazza of the people is the church of Santa Maria del Popolo, in whose monastery. Martin Luther lived when he was in Rome. On the Corso street is the house in which Goethe lived, and as we pass toward the forum there are numerous objects of interest. Indeed, Rome is a wilderness of curiosities. Turn in whatever direction you may, some memorial of pagan antiquity confronts you.

The triumphal arch of Antoninus Pius was thrown down from its place in the Corse, because it interfered with the races in time of the carnival! Alexandria VII. did this, and two of the columns are now in the church of St. Agnese, and two others in a chapel of St. John Lateran. The column of Marcus Aurelius, built in A. D. 174, is 125 feet high, formed of 28 blocks of marble, covered with bas-reliefs in bronze, and surmounted now by a colossal statue of St. Peter. Pope Sixtus V. "purged the column of all iniquity," according to a Latin inscription on the base, and dedicated it to the patron saint of Rome The Italian chamber of deputies is near by, and at a little distance is the old temple of Neptune transformed into a custom housea most appropriate use, no doubt.

A few minutes' walk brings us to the finest fountain in Rome, the fountain of Trevi, recently connected with the insult to the shrine of the Virgin Mary. The water of this fountain was first brought to Rome by M. Agrippa, B. C., 27, and is called Aqua Virgine. Oceanus on a car, with statues of fertility and salubrity, and of the four seasons, form a group, and the cool waters afford a refreshing ing-place on a summer afternoon

As far back as 1812 excavations had revealed the forum of Trojan, with a lofty column, from which the emperor's statue has been dethroned, and St. Peter is again elevated to the height of 128 feet. Ascending a steep hill, we come to the old Roman capitol. Here is a bronze statue of Marcus Aurelius, taken from its former place in the forum, by Michael Angelo. Entering the museum of the capitol, we find ourselves in the midst of several thousand antiquarian objects. Here are sar-cophagi, vases, and statues from Egypt, including several memorials of Queen Cleopatra and a fine marble bust of Isis. Collected from willas, from the hills and valleys around Rome and from pagan temples within it, are piliars and statues, and works of art of almost every conceivable form, in marble, alabaster, bronze and porphyry, the products of Grecian skill. Brought to Kome by the conquerers of Greece, many of these statues were placed in the Koman temples, to be again removed, bapuzed by nory water and placed side by side with thristian emperors and popes.

I enjoyed very much the conection of busts of the koman emperors and men of tame. They are all here—poets, historians, warriors, orators, statesmen. From the blind Homer of Greece to the last of her bards and sages, from the labled Romunus and Remus down to the last of the popes that has gone to render his account. Time would laif me to recount the impressions of a few nours' study tiere is Brutus, who mur tered Casar, not in the form that artists hav given aim in modern days, but as his country men and contemporaries knew bim. To head is small, the forenead low, and the whol contour that of a man with harrow mind, and capable of any act of desperate fanaticism Nero's head, also, is indicative of a bruta nature. A large neck, but little smaller in deed than the lateral diameter of the skull, the expression of the face is sullen and smister. Commodus is in the dress of an actor, a fitting garo for a man who allowed his empire to go to rum whilst he was playing the comedian before the foothights of Julius Casar is a man of small stature, lean, wrinkled, and melancholy face. There is nothing in it denoting the statesmen or the warrior. Indeed, if we are to trus these busis, the products of the age in which the men lived, and many of them from casts made on the living subject, the great majority of these celebrated men were below the aver age stature of our times. The heads almost all small and narrow. The tew exceptions to this rule are, some of them, the very cases which we would least expect to be so. Marcus Aurelius, one of the best public men of his time, has a decidedly sour and forbidding countenance. Seneca, whose preserved works approach in moral and elevated tone to the writings of St. Paul, has a face that is really painful to study Caligula, who wished that all the world had but one head that he might sever it at a blow, is, in appearance, a man of large and benevo-lent genius. Thus, we might trace agree-ments and disagreements with the teachings of modern phrenology and physiogonomy, almost equally divided. The bust of Cicero gives the best conception of the orator I have seen. Demosthenes is quite the reverse. So, we might linger over these venerable memo-rials for days and weeks.

The Roman forum has only been recently excavated, and the work is still going on, many of the finest works of Roman antiquity having been found only a tew years ago; some of them last year, and others this spring. Indeed, I saw a beautiful marble column, just rolled out of its tomb last week. There just rolled out of its tomb last week. There are the ruins of three tempies, of Concord, of Vespasian, and of Saturn almostin a group.

Modern Rome is at least thirty feet nigher than the pavements of these old temples, in the same and twelve or fifteen in others. some places, and twelve or tifteen in others. The tides of time of barbarian Goth and Christian invasion, reduced old Rome to rubbish, followers of Christ have been taken away, to perform miracles in churches, or to attract the curiosity and stimulate the devotion of the curiosity and stimulate the devotion of people in many lands. Going out of a summer's sun into these deep caverns, the cool air at first was pleasant, and then disagreeable. My guide insisted upon my being prepared for the change by a glass of wine, which I took, and saw the reason afterwards for the precaution. This is a melancholy sight, these provides of death, couches in the deep hosen. precaution. This is a melancholy sight, these myriads of death couches in the deep bosom of the earth—these secret places where early Christianity held to her faith until in the Providence of God, deliverance came.

Providence of God, deliverance came.

Returning from my long ramble on the Appian Way, through the bleak and desolate Campagna; I came to the Pauline gate, to visit the church of St. Paul. This church was burned down the night of the death of Clement VII., in 1823, and the new one is not yet fully completed, but only the front remains to be finished. The interior is very beautiful. The church is 432 feet in length, 203 in width, and is in the shape of a Latin cross, with a ceiling 110 feet high. It contains, according to "tradition," the body of St. Paul. The beautiful columns, the polished marble floor, the portraits of the popes, with thirteen places remaining for successors, with thirteen places remaining for successors, and the solemn silence within its walls—all these things were fruitful of reflection. From whence comes the money that is expended on this building? Has not the "fullness of time" this building? Has not the "fullness of time" come to cease piling up these stupendous works among a people who do not need, and do not use them? For, as I shall show, by and by, all the worshippers I saw in six of the principal churches of Rome could be accommodated at one time in any one of the churches in Atlanta. I mean to say that on the Sabbath day in Rome, morning and evening, early and late, I was in six churches, spending the day in turn, with the exception of two hours after noon, an that all the congregations put together would not fill the smallest alarch I know in Atlanta. Where, then, is the use of taxing an impoverished people to put up marble temples and splendid people to put up marble temples and splend works of architecture when the handwriting is on the wall—"weighed in the balan and found wanting."

cause I wished to see the church at the most fortunate hour, the light being best in the morning. Before entering the building made the circuit of its walls, a proceeding necessary to give the spectator a conception of he magnitude of the structure. The circum ference is over 800 yards, or nearly halfa mile. Entering the Piazza San Peitro, we have before us two semi-circular colonades, consisting of four rows of columns in each, 43 feet high and 142 columns and 45 pilasters on each side. The space enclosed by these columns is 52 feet in width. In this elliptical space, is 52 feet in width. In this elliptical space, called the Piazza San Pietro, the great coloscum could be placed with over 200 feet each way to spare. It is in this large courj that the people in former times assembled to receive the papal benediction, his holiness standing in the central balcony of the church. The vestibule of St. Peter's is 235 feet long, j2 feet wide and 66 feet high. The church, from walt to wall, is 651 feet long. 449 feet wide across the transepts, and the nave is 153 feet high. The great cupola is 141 feet in diameter in the interior, and from the ground to the top of the cross is 470 feet in height.

Beyond the catacombs we find the tomb of Romulus, those of Cecilia Metalla, of Senaca, and the Curatii. There are many not as yet Romulus, those of Cecilia Metalla, of Senaca, and the Curatii. There are many not as yet identified. It was a prosy scene I witnessed at the tomb of Seneca. A countryman, in very ragged and very dirty costume, lay at full length in the shadow of the mound, whilst his bony horse stood munching his hay with great deliberation. The one of those two animals knew as much of the locality as the other. What was Senece towards recognitions. the other. What was Senaca to man or horse? Perhaps the old philosopher had many neighbors like this man, equally unconcerned, and equally unconscious of those mighty problems that disturb the anxious heads and hearts of the wise. Perhaps it is "folly to be wise."

I have seen some statements of disappointed visitors on first entering the church, the building appearing to them much smaller than the reality. Possibly, because I had already measured its circumference, this effect was not produced upon me. Neither did I see some effects of contrast which the guide endeavored to show me. I had formed my standard of menial measurement, and every-standard of menial measurement. tandard of mental measurement, and every thing within appeared to me in its real, and not in an illusory aspect. To say that the effect upon the spectator is sublime, that there is no single room in the world to compare with this magnificent building, is to make a feeble attempt at description. Viewing its seven chapels which are designated as -of peculiar sanctity to the devotee-the high altar at which the pope celebrates the mass—the "chair of St. Peter" in the rear—the display of silver and gold, and bronze, and gilt, and works of art in sculpture, fresco, mosaic and paintings, one leaves the place with a sense of oppression upon the mind. We need not turn over the pages of history, with whose darkest annals this famous building is inseperably unified to realize a sense inseperably united, to realize a sense of melancholy and sorrowful reflection upon the weakness of human nature. There, under that magnificent canonature.

some places, and twelve or litteen in others. The tides of time, of barbarian Goth and Christian invasion, reduced old Rome to rubbish, and then built anew upon the ruins. Out of this accumulated superstructure of dust and earth the old relies are now being recovered. The triumphalarches of sovenes, of Titus and of Constantine remain more or less perfect, and the famous baths of Caracalla astound the isitor by their proportions. Sixteen hundred ople could bathe in one of them at the same e. Whole acres of ground are covered with mighty rains, wells of correce and brick one limited and wearly feet heigh small in frequents, the property of the property of the property of the winds and rains and storms of seventeen special and the storms of the particular shew failed to propose the frequents of the particular shew failed to propose the first of the particular shew for the particular shew for

Casar Augustus!"

The Sistine chapel, from its great height of ceiling and narrowness does not seem to be as large as it really is. It is 133 feet long, 45 wide and over 100 feet high. This is, par excellence, the Pope's chapel, and, in the rear, is the frame of the celebrated papal chair, now denuded of its ornaments, and looking like any other stuffed and padded piece of antique furniture. There was no special virtue in sitting down in the pope's chair, but the visitor can hardly refrain from doing so, in sitting down in the pope's chair, but the visitor can hardly refrain from doing so, when he finds it stored away in a quiet corner, remote from observation. I have preserved no consciousness of finallibility from the experiment, although I am pursuaded that I have about as much of the real article as the pleasant-faced old gentleman who fills this chair when all the ornaments are on it. The pope does not come to this chapel now. The great crucifix is taken down, and I met only two or three tourists with guide books in hand, making notes upon the paintings on the W. P. H.
